

Learning Management Systems 2022: What You Need to Know About Usage & Selection

Executive Summary

In June of 2022 The Learning Guild conducted a survey of learning professionals to gain an understanding of which learning management system products their organizations are using, how long their selection and implementation processes took, and whether they are satisfied with their selections. We also inquired about their favorite features, those still needed, and how the organizations are using the data generated by their LMS. Respondents were asked to share advice to those shopping for a new—perhaps first—LMS. Responses were solicited via email and social channels. A total of 644 respondents completed the survey.

To download the full report, click here.